

National Headliners

NHS England publishes a new implementation guide and resource pack for dementia care: these tools set out what good quality assessment, diagnosis & care look like in relation to formal guidance, as well as the views and expectations of people living with dementia and their carers. Also:

- Policy and strategic context for transforming dementia care
- Access and quality benchmarks for the dementia care pathway
- How to deliver high-quality dementia care
- Data collection and outcome measurement

Access the resource here

Skills for Care and Health releases "Person centred approaches - A core skills education and training framework": commissioned by Health Education England, this framework is based on the principles of co-production and involves the participation of a wide range of stakeholder organisations and representatives of people using health and care services.

Access the website here for the Framework

NHS England Webinars on end of life care: if missed the first time, there is an opportunity to view the last two webinars again:

- Emergency Care Improvement Programme: listen to the recording from the July 4th 2017.
- Community-based initiatives: listen to the recording from the 1st August 2017.

Working together in partnership to improve quality and care
at the end of life in the Thames Valley

Thames Valley
Strategic Clinical Network

End of Life Bulletin August 2017

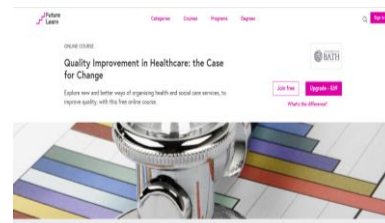

New report highlights the role of specialist palliative care support to care homes: commissioned by Public Health England, and undertaken by the Marie Curie Research Centre, the report is based on a survey of organisations providing specialist palliative care services and examines their role in providing support to care homes in England.

Access the report here

Regional Updates

Quality Improvement in Healthcare: the Case for Change: this free online course starts on the 4th September and lasts for 6 weeks and can help to explore new and better ways of organizing health and social care services.

Access the course

What Matters to Me: a Human Rights approach to end of life care free workshops: at the Duchess of Kent Hospice open to anyone working in health or social care.

Book for your place below:

- Registered Workforce Workshops:
11th, 18th, 28th September 2017
- Non-registered Workforce Workshops:
14th and 25th September 2017